World Book Day

World Book Day is on Thursday 4th March. It will be a virtual event this year but we still have lots of exciting things planned for the children.

DRESS UP!

On Thursday 4th March, dress up as your favourite book character. Send photos of yourself reading a book either through twitter @CliftonPrim or j2e. Have a look at the Collins Big Cat Library for some inspiration!

BUILD A READING DEN!

We would like you to build a cosy, comfortable spot, perfect for settling down and enjoying a story. You can read a story you already have at home, read an ebook from the Collins Big Cat Library, or tell a story using your imagination.

1. Gather together some blankets and pillows
2. Find a quiet spot
3. Arrange the pillows and blankets to create a comfy reading space
4. Enjoy reading a story
5. Tweet a photo of yourself in your reading den to @CliftonPrim.

TWEET

There are lots of famous authors who love using Twitter. Can you think of a really interesting question to ask an author? Here are some suggestions of authors you could tweet: Nick Sharratt (@NickSharratt1), Peter Bently (@Peter Bently), Julia Jarman (@JuliaJarman), SF Said (@whatSFSaid), Tom McLaughlin (@_TomMcLaughlin), @Sophie Anderson (@sophieinspace), Cressida Cowell (@CressidaCowell), Philip Pullman (@Philip Pullman).

JOIN IN

There are going to be three live events (detailed below) that you can join in with. Visit the World Book Day Website for more information <https://www.worldbookday.com/events/>

Book Tokens

Please keep a look out for further information regarding how you can access your book tokens.

Yours faithfully,

The English team.
